Abstract. The article scientifically analyzes the role of the community in increasing the social activity of young people. In teaching young people about vital issues, such as independent organization of their activities, self-government, worldview, it is important that they strive for self-improvement.

Keywords: youth, social activity, community, self-government, vital necessity, ideological views.

Young people tend to be independent in organizing personal activities, which requires them to be active in mastering the content of social relations [2, p.17].

Another important trait that only young people have is friendship, camaraderie, courtesy and love. Based on these feelings, qualities such as collectivism, that is, mutual solidarity, are formed. This situation creates the basis for the formation in young people of such feelings as philanthropy, philanthropy, based on the desire for a goal, unity, the struggle not only for oneself, but also for the interests and aspirations of others.

The warm attitude of boys and girls to each other gives rise to such feelings in them as love, affection. The propensity for sensuality determines the nature of love for the beauties of social life in young people. Therefore, the sanctity of feelings between them, the formation of a serious attitude towards issues such as family and marriage, the promotion of a healthy lifestyle - a healthy generation, a guarantee of a clean generation, this issue is the first and most important factor. in the upbringing of a harmoniously developed generation, love for the land means loyalty to the family, and loyalty to the family means love for the Motherland [2, p.17].

The role of the collective in shaping the consciousness of young people is great. Their attention is attracted by their group, neighborhood, enterprise, various events, holidays, creative meetings. It involves them in public affairs. Another important feature of adolescence is manifested in the desire for socially useful work. Based on this feature, the establishment of production activities increases their love for work. Evaluating your own work will help you get rid of addiction. In the process of labor, young people are brought up, work independently on themselves, acquire certain qualities and qualities, strengthen their will [2, p.195].

In organizing the activities of the Youth Union youth social movement, in shaping the idea of national independence in the minds of young people, the leading role was taken by khokimiyats, school workers, the administration of an existing enterprise or organization. It should be noted that when coordinating the activities of the Youth Union youth social movement, young people always need the support and guidance of a philosophical or labor team, teachers with life experience.

At a time when democratic processes are taking place in the life of society, a number of reforms are being carried out in the field of education. The upbringing of youth in the spirit of the national idea, the determination of its spiritual and moral qualities rose to the level of state policy. Raising the political consciousness of every young person, ensuring his social activity and achieving active participation in the life of society, as well as the formation of a spiritual, enlightened, harmoniously developed personality is the most important direction in the field of education. The main spiritual and human rights of young people are the realization of their work, that is, the realization of their spiritual abilities, interests, opportunities, the creation of material wealth and, above all, the interests of their family and society. Since this factor is a fundamental human right, the creation of conditions and opportunities for the provision and implementation of this right is the basis of a truly democratic state. If in the above conditions the true human nature of youth is manifested, then it will be spiritually and socially active. Reforms in the socio-economic, socio-spiritual spheres in our independent Republic make special demands on the spiritual development of student youth. Market relations develop the economy, product quality, and the price system.

To reform the education system, new moods in society are needed. Today's need lies in the harmonious upbringing of the younger generation, as well as in preparing students for the organization of social relations, for the active organization of this process, for initiative, independence [1, p.150].

In the conditions of deepening market relations in the country, recognizing the importance of democratic governance in all sectors of the economy, we must pay special attention to ensuring the integration of young people into the lives of students, spiritual closeness between students and youth, and improving the rights and obligations of young people.

Today, the main goal of the educational process is the priority of universal human values, observance of moral norms based on the national mentality, practical skills of social work, pride in the participation of citizens in creating the future of the country, the formation of a sense of duty, social and genuine human development // 32-b.]. The theoretical study of the ways, factors, tasks, methods and forms of increasing the efficiency of the formation of the idea of national development, generalization of the results of his experiments determine the success of educational work. Therefore, in the process of higher education, it is planned to raise the consciousness and political activity of young people, mobilize them to fulfill tasks related to the development of the country and the nation, explain that national revival, national awakening and purification are the main goals of the Uzbek nation [4, p. 232].

In our opinion, a positive solution to the following tasks in this regard would increase the prestige of youth communities among students, which would inspire trust and respect for youth communities:

To study the interests and needs of students based on the organization of social surveys, to determine the level of spiritual and social activity.

Creation of a psychological and diagnostic center that studies the level of spiritual and social activity of students, as well as student problems.

Involvement in the organization of the center of a group of specialists, consisting of experienced psychologists, sociologists and teachers.

Prepare speakers by selecting students with a broad outlook, ethical, knowledgeable, speaking skills, teaching them according to a special program, and with their help to conduct spiritual and social propaganda work among students.

Analysis of the current state of implementation of the requirements of the Law of the Republic of Uzbekistan "On the fundamentals of state youth policy in the Republic of Uzbekistan" by members of the Youth Union operating under the Oliy Majlis of the Republic of Uzbekistan.

Organization of activities aimed at building students' confidence in the future, the ability to assess their own abilities and talents, using the opportunities and forces of creative, enterprising and enthusiastic students, as well as providing them with psychological knowledge.

Develop reading among students that serves to demonstrate the power of the human factor and its potential, and organize exhibitions of works of art and art.

Thirty percent of the country's population is made up of people between the ages of 14 and 30. Broad conditions have been created for their training and professional development. At the same time, it is important to organize meaningful leisure for young people. The more spiritually mature young people are, the stronger will be their immunity to various vices.

Taking into account the above, under the chairmanship of the President of the Republic of Uzbekistan Shavkat Mirziyoyev, on March 19, 2019, to strengthen the attention of young people, attracting them to culture, art, physical culture and sports, in the middle of the day, a video conference was held to promote reading and increase women's employment.

In the modern world, where various conflicts are escalating, time has shown that it is more important than ever to strengthen the spiritual immunity of our youth, to spend meaningful free time. Therefore, five important initiatives were put forward by our President.

The first initiative is to increase the interest and talent of young people in music, art, literature, theater and other arts.

The second initiative is aimed at creating the necessary conditions for youth to engage in and demonstrate their abilities in sports.

The third initiative aims to promote the effective use of computer technology and the Internet among the population and youth.

The fourth initiative is aimed at raising the morale of young people, organizing systematic work to popularize reading among them.

The fifth initiative is the employment of women.

This noble idea was put forward during the visit of our President to the Syrdarya region, and a lot of work was done in a short time. 300,000 copies of fiction were transferred to the district and city libraries of the Syrdarya region. Music and art schools are equipped with musical instruments and sports facilities. This work was continued in other regions, especially in Namangan, the "Caravan of Enlightenment" was organized. The youth received 25,000 books, 80 types of sports equipment and musical instruments.

In a word, this initiative was met by our people, especially the youth, with great interest. The meeting discussed the introduction of this practice in all regions of the country. According to the first initiative, to date, more than 800 cultural centers in the country, 312 music and art schools are covered by a small number of students, most of these institutions have textbooks, sheet music, musical instruments, it is stated that the equipment was not properly provided.

The head of state instructed to study the material and technical base of local houses of culture and music schools and their use, to improve their condition. The Ministry of Public Education and Culture, together with the authorities, was instructed to create an additional 1,500 clubs in regional houses of culture and general education schools for the interests of youth. The need to create amateur performances, youth theater studios and "Youth Clubs" in the houses of culture with the involvement of young entrepreneurs and local patrons. Attention was also paid to the issues of increasing the number of highly educated people in the field of music and art. The Ministries of Higher and Secondary Specialized Education have been instructed to organize history classes in museums, historical monuments, temples and theaters.

Also, when discussing the issues of the second initiative, it was noted that there are more than 12,000 sports facilities in the country, but the level of coverage of youth in physical education and mass sports is insufficient. The level of equipping general education schools with sports equipment is 56% in the country, including 12% in Surkhandarya region, 14% in Khorezm and 15% in Karakalpakstan. The video selector defines measures to attract young people to physical culture and sports. It was noted that the appointment of well-known athletes who won international competitions to local sports schools, as well as targeted training of athletes at special correspondence departments of higher educational institutions, will give good results. Tasks have been set to increase the number of sports schools for children and adolescents.

The third videoconference initiative was aimed at protecting young people from malicious attacks on the Internet and educating them in the effective use of information technology. The Ministry of Information Technologies and Communications was instructed to create digital technology training centers in all regional and city centers based on the best international practices. These centers provide free training in e-commerce and programming, provide innovative business skills in the field of information technology and support start-up projects. Despite the fact that computers are available in all schools today, the inefficient use of Internet services is critically analyzed. The Ministry of Public Education and the Ministry of Information Technologies and Communications were instructed to develop an action plan to provide computer classes in all schools with modern technology and high-speed Internet by 2021.

According to the fourth initiative, instilling in young people a love of books from an early age, the formation of independent thinking and a broad outlook will become a solid foundation in their lives. However, due to the lack of conditions in many remote areas, the Information Resource Centers that replaced the former libraries have not coped with their tasks. With this in mind, the new initiative plans to deliver additional books depending on the number of young people. The President instructed the relevant ministries and associations to publish books on artistic, educational and social topics within the framework of the Book Caravan project. The meeting on the fifth initiative also discussed issues of women's employment.

For this, in 2019-2020, it is planned to build 195 sewing and knitting enterprises from different panels in all regions. They are densely populated and labor intensive. These businesses are expected to create more than 24,000 permanent jobs for women.

Taking into account the fact that the number of women who want to work exceeds the number of jobs, the President emphasized the need to organize work at enterprises in two shifts, to produce products that are in demand.

In order to widely implement 5 important initiatives announced at the meeting, responsible persons of the regions were appointed.

All this was done in a short time after the video conference on March 19, 2019, that is, on April 3 of the same year, the implementation of 5 important initiatives was considered. The proposals included in these programs and the mechanisms for their implementation were discussed at the meeting. The officials were informed on the issues discussed and given specific instructions for improving the draft programs.

Conclusion. Thus, professional orientation is important in the development of spiritual and social activity of students. After all, they are involved in the process of social relations through the organization of professional activities.
