

PRACTICAL STATUS OF THE STUDY OF FRENCH LANGUAGE AND CULTURE IN PEDAGOGICAL HIGHER EDUCATION INSTITUTIONS

Muzaffarova Nodira Mardonovna

Tashkent State Pedagogical University, Faculty of Foreign Languages, Department of European languages

Annotation: Whether students retain their native language successfully when acquiring additional languages depends on factors affecting one another. Studies have shown that language education is needed from six to eight years to develop the level of literacy and verbal pronunciation necessary for academic achievement in secondary school. In addition, the prohibitions define that fluency and literacy in their native language create a cognitive and linguistic basis for the study of additional languages. And this serves as an important basis in the study of other foreign languages. In this article, opinions and comments are made on the practical status of the study of the French language and culture in pedagogical higher education institutions.

Keywords: Higher education institutions, pedagogy, language learning, French language and culture, lesson process, quality of education, training of qualified personnel.

Today, in many higher education institutions, which produce personnel in foreign languages in Uzbekistan, all modern techniques and technologies are used for the formation of the cadre, which has a good potential of students first. In particular, films are shown to enable students studying the French language to learn French culture, and the role of practical and artistic events and seminars in making education more interesting is very important. Many languages and cultures of the world are at risk with historical invasions and many modern political, economic and social processes, mainly associated with colonialism. One of the ways to counter this linguistic and cultural loss is to encourage and support the parents to teach their children at home locally tilni, as well as to deliver early childhood education program and formal education systems to their children in their native language.

In today's world it is not enough to speak a single foreign language. Students who graduated from the French immersion program abroad have the opportunity to find work, whether abroad or at home. The ability to speak French is a great advantage in the international labor market. French as a foreign language is the second in the world after English. The International Organization includes 51 member states and governments. Of these, 28 countries have French as their official language. French is the only language other than English, spoken on five continents. French and English are only two global languages.

The motivation for adaptation in children is also high, and their pronunciation and grammar habits of the first language are not so deeply thought out, which makes it much easier for beginners to take frantic lessons. And in students, only a little bit of silence can be felt in this process. But now most of the pedagogical higher education institutions have a very good education system and traditions. For example, debates with different forms, forms and methods can be said to be organized in exactly the French language is also a good innovative method in this regard. In addition to this general and gradual advantage for young learners, there is one important quality difference: even very good old language learners differ from young people in the correct and consistent use of grammar.

Intellect in addition to the benefits, knowledge of a foreign language such as French makes travel easier, increases career opportunities and allows you to learn more about different nations and cultures. And this means a real motivation for students. For this reason, there are student exchange programs in our country or summer additional travel and education programs. Through them, our students will further strengthen their knowledge.

In addition, the ability to communicate in multiple languages is becoming increasingly important, especially when the global business community is increasingly available today. Communicating directly with new customers and companies in their native languages is one of the first steps to establishing lasting, sustainable international business relationships. Being able to do this automatically puts the multilingual person miles ahead of the competition for jobs and high prestige positions or any of his or her peers. Knowledge of French remains a very demanded skill among employers in the UK, and 49 percent are considered useful for their organization.

In conclusion, learning French has many advantages. Whether you want to combine your knowledge with a few frantic lessons, improve your knowledge further and improve your career opportunities with life-long conversations, be a good multi task or simply make your travels enjoyable is certain to do so. Especially today, there are all conditions for students studying the French language in higher education institutions of Uzbekistan. Nano technology is getting hand in the accurate language learning of students. There is also an opportunity to talk with young people who are learning French from all over the world in the virtual world. For this reason, through the internet, we can easily find films and videos that reflect different French cultures. Through a diverse event known as diversity of cultures being held at our universities, our students try to reflect and explore French culture. And I believe that this is an important factor in the training of personnel with good knowledge potential in the future.

REFERENCES:

1. <https://www.fluentu.com/blog/french/french-learning-books/>
2. <https://www.amazon.com/French-Conversation-Quickstudy-Language-English/dp/1423236475>
3. <https://www.vistawide.com/french/french.htm>
4. <https://www.familysearch.org/en/blog/french-culture-traditions>